CITY OF EVERETT HOSTS FIRST TIME HOMEBUYERS SEMINAR

On January 12th Mayor Carlo DeMaria and the City of Everett hosted a first time homebuyers seminar. Buying a home for the first time can be a stressful and confusing process. The seminar guided and helped with the home buying process for those who did not have much information on it. Along with advice and tips on home buying techniques, those who attended also learned about the real estate market.

Everett Bank's Assistant Vice President of Residential Lending Eric Jackson, explained the various options and ideas that would help any homebuyer. When beginning any new project you want to do it correctly, but more importantly legally.

Attorney David O'Neill of Silverstein & O'Neill LLP answered any legal questions or concerns that homebuyers had and guided individuals through the home buying process.

Mayor DeMaria stated, "Buying a home is a big step for anyone. Having guidance and knowledgeable people to coach you through the process is really helpful. We in the City of Everett are happy to provide the tools necessary to make this process so much easier."
